HIGH SCHOOL FOR YOUNG COLORED LADIES AND MISTRESSES

It is with a rush of pleasurable emotions that we insert, in another column, the advertisement of Miss P. CRANDALL, (a white lady) of Canterbury, Connecticut, for a High School for young colored Ladies and Misses. This is a seasonable auxiliary to the contemplated Manual Labor School for Colored Youth. An interview with Miss C. has satisfied us that she richly deserves the patronage and confidence of the people of color; and we doubt not they will give her both. The following extract from a letter, received by us from a highly respectable gentleman, contains all that need be said in her favor:

"Miss C. has, for a number of years, been principal of a high school for the education of Females, and has earned great credit to herself and school, as well for her peculiar qualifications in conducting it, as for her untiring zeal for the improvement of those entrusted to her charge. Miss C., possessing naturally a great share of the excellent virtue, viz. Philanthropy, has been provoked by the benevolent exertions of the day towards ameliorating the condition of the wretched suffering African, in this country, and has cast but one eye on the treasure; and, sir, for myself, I have no doubt, knowing as I do her rare qualifications and firmness of purpose, that she would prove a most valuable auxiliary to the African cause."

In making the alteration in her School, Miss C. has a great risk; but her manifest inflexible courage and perseverance, and she will be sustained triumphantly. Reproach and persecution may assail her at the commencement, but they will soon expire. Her terms are very low; the branches which she proposes to teach are various; she has a large and commodious house—and the village of Canterbury is central and pleasant.

THE TARIFF—NULLIFICATION.

Our paper, this week, is chiefly occupied with articles relating to the great question of the day. We beg to remind our readers that our views may be obtained each week at ten cents, or in a bundle of ten, for $1.00; and that the price is as good as the words: whatever the tariff, theiad is number, and the article.
