

For general accommodation.
Horses, Gigs, Carriages, &c. to be Let.

THE subscriber has constantly to let, at his Stable in Fleet-street, near Mr. David Smith's Tavern, ten or twelve good HORSES, five GIGS, one HACK, one covered WAGGON for the convenience of five or six passengers, and two common WAGGONS.

☞ He has also two Boys, of a suitable age to drive small carriages to any part of the country, when required.

Stabling.---He keeps a convenient STABLE, with separate stalls, for Boarding Horses in the best manner.

Constant attendance given, and orders promptly attended to.

WM. LANSON.

New-Haven, May 24, 1819.

9w13

William Lanson
Advertisement

Connecticut Herald (New Haven, CT)

June 22, 1819

In addition to his quarrying and wharfing business, by the late 1810s New Haven's African-American entrepreneur William Lanson had expanded his business enterprises to include rental property, a large hotel, a grocery store, and a stable and livery service. This advertisement ran in New Haven's Connecticut Herald. Fleet Street, the location of Lanson's stable and livery service, was the lower portion of what is now State Street, and led directly to the Long Wharf, a prime location for boarding and renting out horses and carriages.